GOULD ACADEMY'S WINTER CARNIVAL got off to hot start on a cold and windy Saturday night with a bonfire and ski race. Just prior to the lighting of the pyre, the carnival king and queen were crowned. Carnival events continued this week with a dog sled race, a toboggan race and a snow sculpture contest.

Local Democrats gearing up for party caucuses

Maine Democrats will hold their caucuses on Sunday, Feb. 28, in town halls, schools, churches and homes throughout the state. In the SAD #4 area, Bethel and Greenwood Democrats will caucus at Telstar Regional High School beginning at 3 p.m. Locations and times for other town caucuses will be announced during the coming weeks.

Local Democratic officials have extended the invitation to other area towns to hold their caucuses at Telstar. This will allow the process to be explained thoroughly and will provide an opportunity for candidates or their representatives to make brief statements prior to the

Woodstock may abandon attempts to collect fine

The Woodstock Board of Selectmen is considering giving up attempts to collect a $1,250 fine imposed on a Washington, D.C. man for alleged septic system violations on Maguer's Island in Lake Christopher.

In October, the town's Planning Board recommended that the selectmen impose a maximum-possible fine of $2,500 on Richard W. Carlson. The fine was for his continuing to expand and renovate a building on the island after being ordered to cease work until a septic system was

Newry municipal budget shows increase of 32.7%

The Newry selectmen met last Thursday and completed work on the annual town report and the town budget for 1988. The budget, without schools and county tax totals $217,745.44, up 32.7 percent from 1987.

The largest increases are in the Fire Department Fund. The 1988 figure is $38,000, which is the amount recommended by the fire department committees. It is recommended by the committees that $14,500 of this amount come from highways, since it is planned that the proposed fire station also be used as a highway department garage. Last year's figure for the fire department fund was $25,000. Large increases are also shown in the solid waste and availability fee for use of the Bethel Fire Department.

Following are some of the recommendations for the larger accounts for 1988, with 1987 amounts in parentheses: Combined accounts for roads & bridges, tarring roads and snow removal, $43,000 ($45,000); town officers' salaries and miscellaneous expenses, $20,000 ($20,000); solid waste disposal, $35,000 ($20,000); fire protection, $10,000 ($6,000); municipal building, $10,000 ($10,000); highway equipment fund, $10,000 ($25,000); ambulance service, $3,500 ($1,000).

Two new accounts are Planning Board, $5,000 and computer purchase, $7,500. Increases are expected in the county tax and SAD #44 accounts. County tax for

School board envisions 16% increase in local assessment

The process of developing SAD #44's budget for the coming school year entered its public phase last week when a preliminary budget request was presented to the district's full Board of Directors.

In a departure from previous years, the initial budget request for the 1989 fiscal year (the 1988-89 school year) was presented to the board without being first reviewed and reduced by the district administration.

The process was changed, Finance Committee Chairman Merton Brown said, in order to allow the board members to see not only the total dollar figures, but also the specific items requested by the various department heads.

Because no reductions have yet been made in the budget request, its figures are much higher than those in the current, FY '88 budget. The total budget request is for $5,500,209, up 23 percent from FY '88. The amount to be raised locally would be $2,617,678, up 41 percent from the amount raised last year.

These preliminary figures are expected to be drastically reduced by the next budget meeting, scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 24.

In presenting the initial request to the board, Superintendent Dewaine Craig suggested he be authorized to come back at the following meeting with a revised budget calling for a 16 percent increase in the amount to be raised locally. The board concurred.

The next meeting is to be devoted to reviewing Superintendent Craig's list of budget reductions, discussing budget options and establishing further budget goals.

The initial budget request called for major increases in the following areas: guidance—23 percent; curriculum improvement—53 percent; library—41 percent; insurance—77 percent; school administration—44 percent; copy

Bethel Inn proposes 20 additional condo units

The Bethel Inn has applied for permission to construct an additional 20 units next to the 40-unit Fairway townhouse condominium project.

Project manager John Laban appeared last night (Tuesday) before the Bethel selectmen, acting in their capacity of sewer commissioners, to ask for a sewer tie-in permit for the additional condominiums. He said he would like to see construction start in the fall.

Sewer plant superintendent Rob Gunderson told the board he didn't think the system could handle the additional sewage. "You're gonna have problems," he said (because the condos, plus Broad Street, plus Mill Hill would all be feeding into a six-inch sewer pipe before getting to the eight-inch pipe under Main Street).

Town Manager Rodney Lynch suggested the town could again work out an agreement with the Inn whereby the latter would agree to replace a portion of leaking sewer main in exchange for being allowed to tie in to the sewer. The amount of infiltrated water kept out by new pipe would be expected to equal the amount of sewage put into the system by the additional condo units.

The board authorized the town manager to work with Mr. Laban and the DEP to hammer out an agreement.

GETTING THERE IS HALF THE FUN. Bethel's Jon Owen slid to a very respectable 23rd place finish in a 38-man luge field at the 15 Winter Olympics, in Calgary. His time after four runs was only 5.916 seconds behind that of gold medalist Jens Mueller, of East Germany. Mr. Owen started the season on the C team but improved steadily, finally beating out 1984 veteran Tim Nardiello in a slide-off the night before the first Olympic luge run.

Here's where your money goes

The Legislature is back in session, and—as usual—money bills will be the most important items on the agenda. Below is a chart summary of what the Legislature appropriated last session. In the current session, some of the contemplated appropriations include the following. The governor's proposed road building, to be fueled by an additional tax on gasoline, was reported on in last week's Citizen. The Citizen's editorial opinion on the fuel tax increase can be found elsewhere on this page.

Foremost among the new budget bills are those implementing the recommendations of the Governor's School Funding Task Force and the Tax Policy Study Committee: $2.5 million is suggested to supplement the existing property tax relief circuit breaker program and approximately $25 million for increased school aid.

Of that $25 million, $10 million is needed just to continue the same state share of rising education costs. The remainder—$14.7 million—is new school aid.

Other proposed appropriations include $500,000 for a new town planning program, and $1 million for communities along "highways of regional significance" to supplement DOT projects along those highways.

The Department of Human Services is also requesting $112,500 to assist municipalities in administering general assistance work-for-welfare programs. bfw

New taxes may not be needed

The governor and his commissioner of transportation are correct when they say a growing state economy depends—in part—on an improving state highway system. But it does not necessarily follow that the best way to raise funds for an improved highway system is by increasing the fuel tax by five cents per gallon.

First, it is not clear that all the money that is said to be needed is, in fact, needed. Building new bridges is a very costly undertaking. Eliminating the bridge-building portion of the administration's road improvement plan would free up $165 million of the $600 million the administration says it needs over 20 years.

Tapping the Maine Turnpike for additional revenues, even if a toll increase were necessary, could produce sizeable amounts of revenue—and it would come largely from out-of-staters.

Going through the wish list of highway projects and selecting for renovation only those that have an urgent need—as proven by numbers of vehicles on the particular road—could eliminate a lot of pork barrel projects.

While the six miles of improvements to Rte. 26 would likely do nothing but good for the area, the improvements could wind up like those in South Paris, accomplishing little after much fanfare. It would seem that passing lanes are of prime importance at points between Gray and Bethel.

Before local organizations and local legislators begin lining up in support of the tax increase, they should force the administration to justify all the projects—particularly the bridges—on the wish list. And they should force the administration to explain why road improvement revenues cannot be raised in any other way than by a fuel tax increase. bfw

Sen. Mitchell says:

Last Saturday's Olympic torch-lighting ceremony brings with it a feeling of brotherhood among the world's athletes gathered together to participate in the 1988 Olympics. As the Games take place in the crisp, cold air of Calgary, Canada, and in the warmer climate of Seoul, South Korea, millions of viewers will watch with admiration as athletes promote world peace through friendly competition.

The turning of the 1988 Olympics, with its theme of world peace and friendship, couldn't be better. Amidst the anticipation of a nuclear arms treaty between the United States and the Soviet Union, athletes from both countries will take part in the Games. Discord between the two super powers has resulted in each of them sitting out some of the Olympic Games during the past decade. Now, both the coming Olympics and the prospect of an INF treaty are indications that the peace process is working.

The Olympics have an interesting history. They began centuries ago in ancient Greece as peaceful festivals in honor of the Greek god, Zeus. In ancient times, all wars would cease while the Games were held.

Originally, the Olympics consisted of only one athletic event, a foot race of about 200 yards. According to early records, the first winner of this event was a Greek cook named Coriobus. In later years the Greeks added other running events to the Olympic schedule.

When the powerful, warlike citizens of the Greek city-state Sparta began to compete in the Games, the agenda was changed again to include wrestling, spear throwing, discus throwing and boxing. The Olympics continued to expand over the next few centuries until, in the fourth century A.D., the Games were officially ended by the Roman emperor Theodosius because they honored pagan gods.

In 1896, the Games were revived by a French nobleman named Pierre de Coubertin. De Coubertin was fascinated by the Greek educational concept of a balanced development of body and mind. The Greeks had tried for some time to resurrect the Olympics, but they had failed to generate any international interest. It was only with the determination and organizational genius of Baron de Coubertin that the Games were finally brought back to life.

The modern Olympics were organized for the purpose of encouraging world peace and friendship, symbolized every four years by the release of several hundred doves at the opening ceremonies.

These ceremonies are an impressive part of the Games. In honor of the original Olympics held in ancient Greece, the athletes from Greece march into the stadium first. Then, after much fanfare of cannons booming and trumpets blaring, the Olympic flag is hoisted.

On the flag is the Olympic symbol. Easily recognized, it consists of five interlocking circles: black, blue, green, red and yellow. At least one of these colors can be found in the flag of every nation competing.

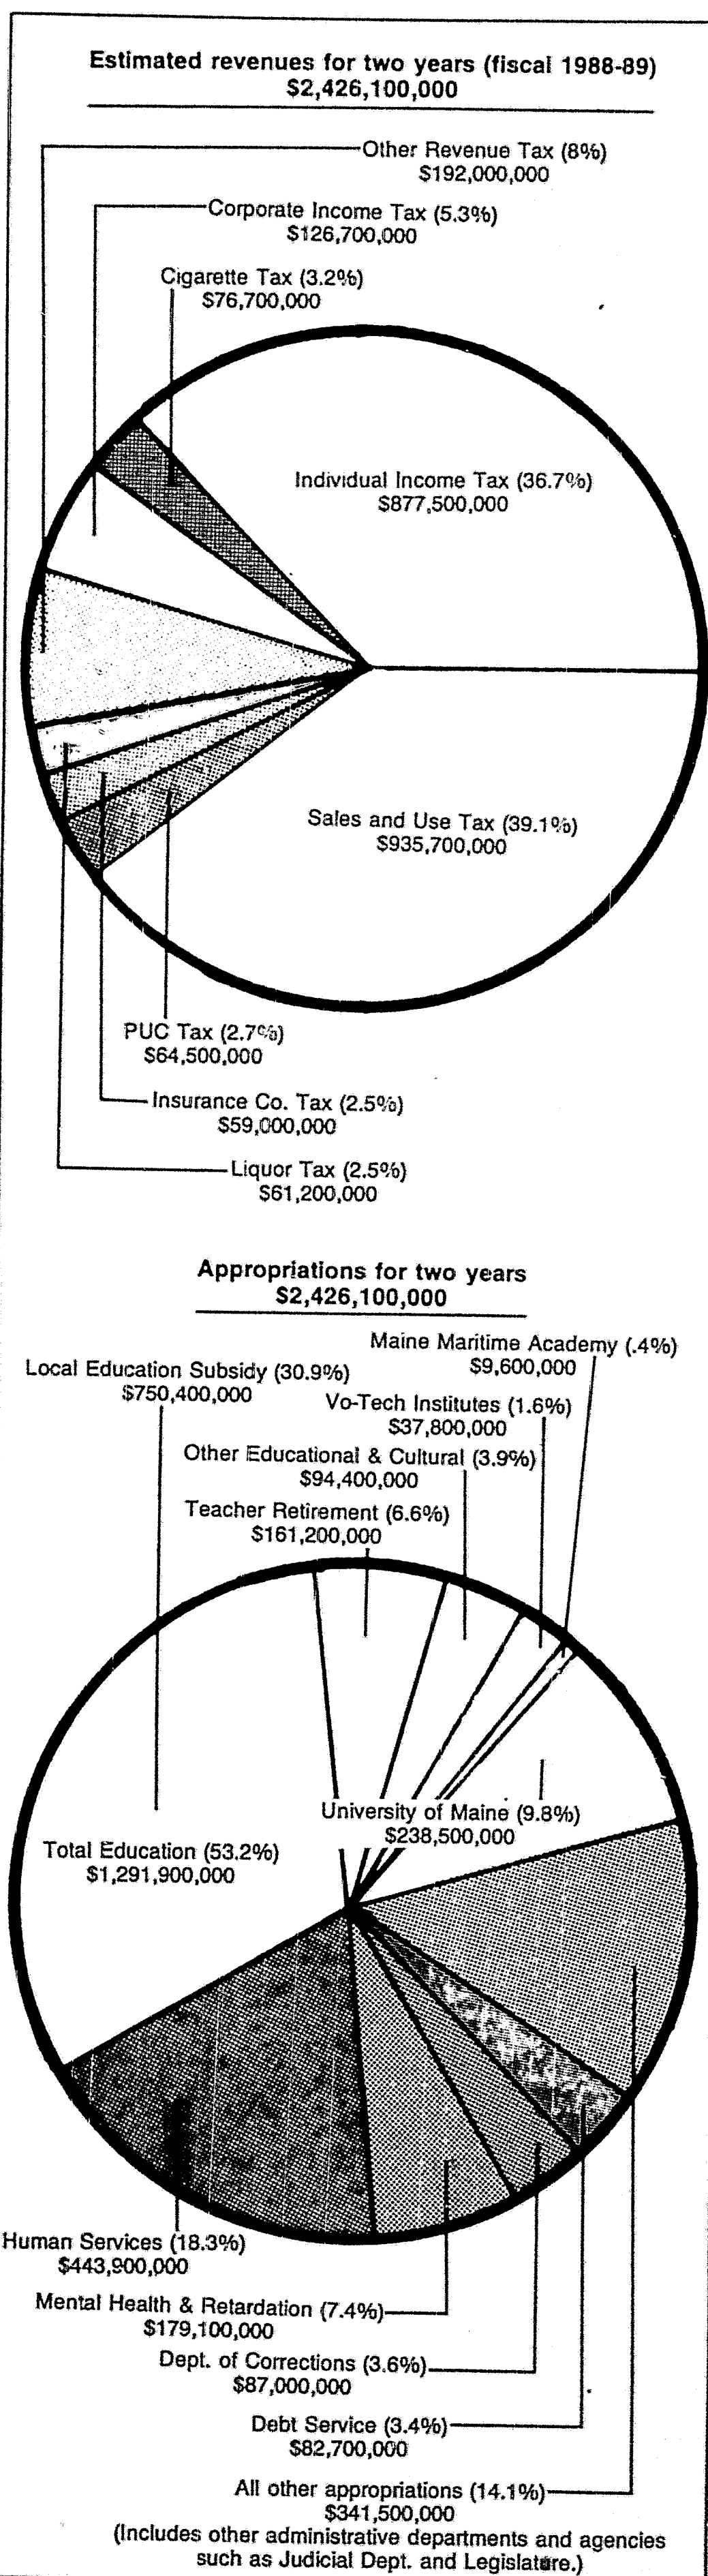

After the flag-raising, the Games are kicked off with the lighting of the Olympic flame. The flame, which is kept burning throughout the 16-day Olympics, is lit using a torch carried by runners in cross-country relays. The relays begin in Olympia, Greece, weeks prior to the opening ceremonies of the Games.

The ideals of the Olympics are high. So are our hopes for the intermediate-range treaty negotiated with the Soviets. As we watch U.S. athletes compete with their counterparts from the Soviet Union and other nations, let us hope that the treaty will be ratified as a first step toward further arms reductions and a more peaceful world.

THE NEW FAIRWAY CONDOMINIUMS, at The Bethel Inn, are 50 percent completed and are being used by Inn guests. The sale of the 40-unit townhouse project has been so successful Inn management is now seeking permission to build 20 additional units. (Originally they had contemplated only 10 additional units.) Inn officials appeared before the sewer commissioners last night (Tuesday) to discuss tying the additional units into the town sewer. The Water District had previously approved a water hook-up for the proposed 10 additional units. The larger number of units now being contemplated will mean new talks with the Water District will be necessary, an Inn official said. The existing units—all of which have been spoken for—were priced between $113,900 and $135,900. The 20 additional units—if they are built—will sell for between $158,500 and $169,000, according to the Inn's project manager, John Laban. He said the rapidly increasing value of the property, plus increased costs of construction, account for the higher prices. Whereas the original 40 units were built at a cost of about $3.5 million, Bethel's appraiser has tentatively valued them at $5 million.

W. Paris moratorium

board was undecided as yet whether the draft moratorium would call for a six-month or one-year halt on subdivisions. "We haven't finalized the wording," he said. "We want to hear what people have to say at the meeting."

If the selectmen decide to go ahead with the moratorium, it would be placed on the warrant for the West Paris annual town meeting, which will be held the following Tuesday.

Mr. Abbott said the moratorium was being proposed because the selectmen felt town officials need time to review the town's total planning process.

"The Planning Board and selectmen are trying to get our act together," he said. "We need to do some organizing."

The town's existing subdivision regulations need to be updated, Mr. Abbott said. There is currently no site plan review ordinance, and the Planning Board has not been able to make much progress on revising the town's comprehensive plan.

"Business as usual just isn't going to get it done. We need to take the pressure off for a little while," he said.

The town has received a commitment from the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments to help expedite the overall process of reviewing and updating its planning regulations. "With their help, we think we might be able to pull it all together in six months," Mr. Abbott said.

"We've got to find out what the town really needs," he said. "We don't want to enact a bunch of dumb ordinances that just create a bureaucratic mess, but we've got to have a process that is more meaningful than what we've got right now."

To the Editor: We all should be very proud to have two schools in our town that over the years have some of the top ski teams in New England.

It is said that a picture may be worth a thousand words, and I am certain the local youngsters are happy to see pictures of themselves in action in your paper.

"Though the 'powers that be' have attempted to run the sport by eliminating jumping, some of the old timers still look forward to seeing some race results. As one of the many who have spent hundreds of cold hours 'on the mountain' in the days of the stopwatch, how are our kids doing?"

As we used to say, "There's no such thing as a good loser, and you can't win them all if you don't win the first one." A retired ski bum, installed. Mr. Carlson did eventually put in a septic system.

Planning Board Chairman Victor Young said at that time, "We felt that it was a major violation that had been carried on for far too long and that he was willingly dragging on the offense."

Selectman Gary Wing concurred with the Planning Board's recommendation that a maximum fine be imposed, but Selectmen Ethel Davis and George Hooper voted to halve the fine. Mrs. Davis argued that the reduction was an attempt "to meet the matter half-way."

It now appears, however, that the town will abandon any attempt to collect the fine.

At a recent selectmen's meeting, Town Manager Kathleen Mersereau told the selectmen—and planning board members—who had attended the meeting on another matter—that Mr. Carlson had not responded to letters regarding the fine and that the town solicitor, Doug Meyers, had recommended abandoning attempts to collect it.

Mrs. Mersereau said the attorney felt that attempting to collect the fine would be expensive for the town, and he said he had serious doubts that a court would hear the case.

"He thinks they'd just consider it a nuisance matter," she said.

Mrs. Mersereau said later that Attorney Meyers had also looked into the possibility that if the town chose to pursue the matter it might be eligible for reimbursement from a $150,000 fund recently established by the state Department of Environmental Protection. The fund is to be used to compensate municipalities for legal expenses incurred in the enforcement of local land use laws and ordinances related to lake protection.

"He didn't think this would qualify," Mrs. Mersereau said. "The bottom line is that the lake wasn't harmed."

Planning Board members indicated that they felt the fact that they were successful in eventually getting a septic system installed on the island was itself a victory.

"I think that we have to look at the positive side," Margaret Hand said.

First Selectman George Hooper was less sanguine. Speaking after the meeting, he expressed concern over the impact that dropping the matter would have on the credibility and enforceability of the town's recently strengthened planning process.

"What I'm hearing now on the street is people saying why bother to get a permit at all," he said.

At Tuesday's meeting, the selectmen tabled action on the fine pending further communication with Attorney Meyers.

The purpose of party caucuses is to determine the presidential preference of voters present and to elect delegates to the state convention based on those preferences. The caucus process differs from the primary election in that it requires the physical presence of party members in one place at one time to undertake the business of running their municipal party organization for the next two years. One facet of this process is the indication of presidential preference.

Only registered Democrats may participate, but it is possible for those not enrolled in a party to enroll as a Democrat at the caucus. Although voter registration officials may be present at the caucus to enroll voters, it is advisable for those interested in attending who are not yet registered as voters to visit their town office to enroll during regular hours prior to Feb. 28.

The major business of a presidential caucus is to elect delegates and electors to the state convention, which will be held in Portland May 1.

Upon arrival, participating municipalities will elect one of the caucus members to be their president. The president will then be responsible for the caucus's business, including the election of delegates and electors.

installed. Mr. Carlson did eventually put in a septic system.

Planning Board Chairman Victor Young said at that time, "We felt that it was a major violation that had been carried on for far too long and that he was willingly dragging on the offense."

Selectman Gary Wing concurred with the Planning Board's recommendation that a maximum fine be imposed, but Selectmen Ethel Davis and George Hooper voted to have the fine, Mrs. Davis argued that the reduction was an attempt "to meet the matter half-way."

It now appears, however, that the town will abandon any attempt to collect the fine.

At a recent selectmen's meeting, Town Manager Kathleen Mersereau told the selectmen—and planning board members—who had attended the meeting on another matter—that Mr. Carlson had not responded to letters regarding the fine and that the town solicitor, Doug Meyers, had recommended abandoning attempts to collect it.

Mrs. Mersereau said the attorney felt that attempting to collect the fine would be expensive for the town, and he said he had serious doubts that a court would hear the case.

He thinks they'd just consider it a nuisance matter," she said.

Mrs. Mersereau said later that Attorney Meyers had also looked into the possibility that if the town chose to pursue the matter it might be eligible for reimbursement from a $150,000 fund recently established by the state Department of Environmental Protection. The fund is to be used to compensate municipalities for legal expenses incurred in the enforcement of local land use laws and ordinances related to lake protection.

"He didn't think this would qualify," Mrs. Mersereau said. "The bottom line is that the lake wasn't harmed."

Planning Board members indicated that they felt the fact that they were successful in eventually getting a septic system installed on the island was itself a victory.

"I think that we have to look at the positive side," Margaret Hand said.

First Selectman George Hooper was less sanguine. Speaking after the meeting, he expressed concern over the impact that dropping the matter would have on the credibility and enforceability of the town's recently strengthened planning process.

What I'm hearing now on the street is people saying, why bother to get a permit at all," he said.

At Tuesday's meeting, the selectmen tabled action on the fine pending further communication with Attorney Meyers.

from the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments to help expedite the overall process of reviewing and updating its planning regulations. "With their help, we think we might be able to pull it all together in six months," Mr. Abbott said.

"We've got to find out what the town really needs," he said. "We don't want to enact a bunch of dumb ordinances that just create a bureaucratic mess, but we've got to have a process that is more meaningful than what we've got right now."

To the Editor:

We all should be very proud to have two schools in our town that over the years have some of the top ski teams in New England.

It is said that a picture may be worth a thousand words, and I am certain the local youngsters are happy to see pictures of themselves in action in your paper.

Though the "powers that be" have attempted to run the sport by eliminating pumping, some of our old timers still look forward to seeing some race results. As one of the many who have spent hundreds of cold hours "on the mountain" in the days of the stopwatch, how are our kids doing?

As we used to say, "There's no such thing as a good loser, and you can't win them all if you don't win the first one." A retired ski bum.

The purpose of party caucuses is to determine the presidential preference of voters present and to elect delegates to the state convention based on those preferences. The caucus process differs from the primary election in that it requires the physical presence of party members in one place at one time to undertake the business of running the municipal party organization for the next two years. One facet of this process is the indication of presidential preference.

Only registered Democrats may participate, but it is possible for those not enrolled in a party to enroll as a Democrat at the caucus. Although voter registration officials may be present at the caucus to enroll voters, it is advisable for those interested in attending who are not yet registered as voters to visit their town office to enroll during regular hours prior to Feb. 28.

portant because in the case of a legislative vacancy in the district, only individuals formally elected to a municipal committee may participate in the selection of a candidate for a special legislative election. County committee representatives are chosen, with each town entitled to at least three members. A slate of election clerks is named and elected to work at polling places during elections.

The major businesses of the caucus in a presidential year is the election of delegates and alternates for the state convention, which will be held in Portland May 13-15.

Upon arrival at the caucus, those participating must register and indicate their presidential preference, naming one of the candidates or declaring themselves uncommitted. Using a mathematical formula, the relative support for each candidate is determined and the delegates are apportioned accordingly. Supporters of each candidate qualifying for a delegate or delegates must elect from their ranks those who will attend the convention as delegates or alternates. Supporters or candidates who do not have enough support to qualify for a delegate may caucus among themselves and decide to band together, or to join the ranks of another candidate.

The overall number of delegates for each town is determined by the number of votes cast for the democratic candidate for governor, Jim Tierney, in 1986. The following area towns are entitled to one delegate: Albany, Gilead, Hanover, Milton, Newry, Stoneham, and Upton. Andover has two delegates, as does Greenwood. West Paris and Woodstock have three delegates, Waterford has four and Bethel is entitled to eight delegates.

The caucus concludes with a discussion of the draft platform. There is expected to be a good deal of media attention paid to the Maine caucuses because they are held on one day, and the cumulative total of delegates each presidential candidate receives provides yet another indication of support as the campaign moves from Iowa and New Hampshire to "Super Tuesday."

The following area towns are in need of someone to take responsibility for calling the caucus, according to Oxford County Democratic Chairman Dennis Gray: Albany, Gilead, Milton, Newry, Stoneham and Upton. Anyone who would be willing to participate should contact Rep. Jeff Mills at 824-3290, Cathy Newell at 824-2083, or Paul McGuire at 824-2365. Party officials are willing to explain the procedures, and to assist at the caucus, if necessary.

At the caucus, rules are adopted to determine whether a secret ballot or show of hands will be used, and whether a majority or plurality will be used to select officers. Caucus officers, including a chair and secretary are elected, and by-laws are adopted or reaffirmed. Detailed instructions for these procedures are provided to each town by the state committee. A municipal committee is selected, usually being the entire attendance at the caucus. This step is im-

In other business, representatives from the presidential campaigns of Vice President Bush, Senator Dole and Pat Robertson spoke to county committee membership about their candidates.

Norway businessman Thatcher Turner announced to the group that he plans to run for the senate. Mr. Turner is well known in the Norway area. He is the former owner of the Norway Laundry and was executive director for the Maine State Chamber of Commerce and Industry. He is married and has two grown children. He said he plans a vigorous campaign.

County Commissioner Norman Ferguson, head of the candidate committee, announced he is looking for people interested in running for house seats in Norway and in the Bethel area, but that there were candidates for all the other positions. All of the current Republican office holders have indicated they will run for re-election.

Vice Chairman Tom Winsor said the committee still had not received any more nominations for convention pages. The State Nominating Convention is scheduled for March 15 in Bangor. He said all the caucus kids were in the hands 1987 was $15,330 and SAD #44 assessment was $195,920.

It is expected that increased valuation will enable the assessors to keep the tax rate to near the 1987 rate of .0073 or $7.30 per thousand of assessed valuation.

Total appropriations for 1987 were Town, $164,039.44; Schools, $195,920; and County, $15,330; 1987 assessed valuation was $48,522,203. In 1982 these figures were Town, $34,831.80; Schools, $94,809; and County, $8,787. Total valuation was $9,521,450. Tax rate for 1982 was .012—$12 per $1,000 of assessed valuation—as compared with the projected .0073—or $7.30 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Skiway using Ch. 7 on local cable system

Sunday River Skiway has a new channel for communicating with skiers staying at the mountain, or elsewhere in the Bethel area.

Channel 7 on Bethel Cablevision has been activated to broadcast up-to-date information on going-on at the ski area. The channel now runs a five-minute loop of 20-second video spots telling about ski conditions, special events, apres ski and nightly entertainment, as well as a variety of other bits of information of interest to ski area visitors.

In addition to promoting on-mountain events, the channel also carries notices from local non-profit organizations. For example, it recently provided a number of announcements for Gould Academy's Winter Carnival.

Sunday River's new channel does not, however, take the place of the community-access channel on the cable system—that channel is still available for community use.

The TV channel serves a similar informational purpose to the low-power radio station, which Sunday River officials had hoped to have operating for the current ski season.

Final regulatory approvals for the radio station have been slow in coming, Sunday River Publicity Representative Jeff Sterling said, in part because of the novel nature of the project.

He added that he expected the approvals—and a new transmitter for the radio station—to arrive soon.

of the various towns and asked that Barbara Henderson be advised of the date, time and place of any caucus. Most towns will caucus during the weekend of Feb. 26.

The next meeting will be held on March 8 at the South Paris Fire Station.

Bethel gets snow job in time for vacation week

The Bethel area received between a foot and a foot-and-a-half of snow in last Friday and Saturday's slow moving northeaster. "The snow came just in time," said Mr. Abram Ski Slopes spokeswoman Jean Anton. The timing was perfect because February vacation week started Monday for public school students throughout New England. (Because of the storm, the students and teachers got an extra day of vacation Friday as schools were closed.)

Wende Gray, who is in charge of marketing at Sunday River Ski Resort, called the snowy 36 hours "a mixed blessing."

She explained, "It's nice to have the snow, but they closed I-95 [so skiers couldn't get up to Maine from points south.]"

"Everybody made it eventually," she added. In fact, innkeepers in the area reported staying up until as late as 3:30 a.m. to welcome guests who were delayed enroute.

While the skiers from away mostly filled the rooms they had reserved, Ms. Gray said the Maine skiers were notable by their absence on Saturday. She figured they were still shoveling out.

But Sunday, which was the windiest day of the ski season, both Sunday River and Mt. Abram were full. Ms. Gray said it was Sunday River's third busiest day ever—between 7,000 and 8,000 skiers. Ms. Anton said, "It was one of our very biggest days, 1800 anyway." And Monday saw just slightly fewer people on the slopes, Ms. Anton added.

She observed that vacation week is made up of two groups of vacationers: those who come for the long Presidents' Day weekend, and those who come for the week. At Mt. Abram, those who came for the week brought their kids—big and small. "The nursery has been just full," Ms. Anton said. "I think it indicates families, which is one of the things we're promoting."

Ms. Gray reported that Sunday River's condos were also filled with families of skiers and enthusiasts. "It will be our best February vacation week ever."

Not everyone was happy to see the storm. Road commissioners and road foremen took it as just part of the job of winter road maintenance. Greenwood Road Commissioner Raymond Seames said he and his assistant, Allen Seames (a cousin), worked 36 hours straight, with just a two-hour break, beginning 8 a.m. Friday. He said his other assistant, Douglas Bean worked 36 hours straight. Contract plover Wayne Hakala put in 20 hours keeping Greenwood roads open.

Mr. Seames figured it was just part of the job. "It didn't present any special problems." In fact, he added, "It's been a relatively easy winter."

In Bethel, Road Foreman Bob Pilgrim had his crew on for about 15 hours straight. He said of the storm, "It was one of those that hung around." Nevertheless, he agreed with his colleague in Greenwood, "It didn't present any real problems."

Fire-gutted building will have to be torn down

The Main Street office/apartment building severely damaged by fire a week and a half ago cannot be saved.

Ginger Kelly, owner of the 130-year-old building, said she is waiting on the completion of insurance assessments to learn whether the less-damaged rear section of the building can be salvaged. "But right now," she said, "it looks like the whole thing will have to come down."

"We will rebuild—one way or another," Mrs. Kelly said, "but right now we really don't know what our plans are."

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All those interested in attending the Bethel Historical Society's 14th annual Heritage Day are reminded that it will be on Monday, Feb. 22, at the Dr. Moses Mason House, 1-4 p.m. Featured during the afternoon will be a wide variety of old-time craft demonstrations and exhibits, special tours of the museum with Indian pudding served from the fireplace of the winter kitchen, historical films, an art show and a local history book fair.

The latest corporate member of the Bethel Historical Society is Boise Cascade Paper Group of Rumford. Newest sustaining member of the Society is Mary Jane McArthur of Cohasset, Mass.

Students of Bethel's past may be interested to learn that Frances Perkins, the first woman to serve in a president's cabinet had a Bethel connection. Her mother Susie E. Bean was born in West Bethel on September 4, 1849 (see William B. Lapham's History of Bethel, 1768-1890, p. 481), the daughter of Daniel Freeman and Susanna Patch. Susie Bean married Fred Perkins of Boston in 1877 according to George Martin in Madam Secretary, Frances Perkins: A Biography of America's First Woman Cabinet Member (Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 1976) (see page 42). Frances Perkins served 12 years as Secretary of Labor in the four administrations of Franklin D. Roosevelt (1933-1945).

Maine Citizens for Historic Preservation is conducting a study of Maine churches to determine their history, how they are maintained and what preservation problems they currently face. The Society recently completed a questionnaire on Bethel's ten religious structures and has forwarded this information to Maine Citizens, which this fall will sponsor a conference to address these needs and suggest possible solutions for the future.

This is your Chamber of Commerce

Each week, this column will spotlight a different member of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The purpose is to give some understanding about the various fields of endeavor of the Chamber members.

Although 1974 marked the beginning of the Bonnama Pottery enterprise in Bethel, Melody Bonnama put together her first studio in Bristol, Pa., back in 1969. In those earlier years Garrett Bonnama was pursuing a career in the teaching profession but in 1972 decided to join the family business on a full time basis.

The Bonnemas work with porcelain and stoneware clays, which they fire in their 100 cubic foot kiln to temperatures reaching 2300 degrees. The barn, which is attached to the Bonnama home on Main Street, serves as a studio and showroom open to the public year-round. A separate building in back of the studio houses the kiln.

The natural development of the Bonnama's work has led to their concentration in glaze techniques and an expansion of glaze colors. The mountains and valleys in the area have inspired their use of these glazes. The product line includes dishes, vases, tooth brush holders, and particularly table lamps, a number of which were especially made for Sunday River facilities.

A recent addition to the studio is a slab roller, a simple machine which allows them to roll out large sheets of clay to be used to make individual tiles and boxes. These new forms, with their large flat surfaces, enable the staff to make use of an extruder to fabricate baskets, trays, candleholders and butter dishes.

Garrett's specialty is his ability to throw large forms of furniture-size scale. He has worked these large cylinder shapes into garden seats, bird baths and floor lamps.

Melody's interest lies in porcelain. From this she throws a variety of organic shapes inspired by flowers. These include vases, plates and bowls, all with hand-cut edges.

The Bonnemas, who are currently assisted by four part-time employees, market their products locally in their showroom and through a cooperative marketing facility. Many of their items have been shipped to foreign countries.

Meditation: John 12:46, "I am come a light into the world."

Last Sunday, Sunday School superintendent Marge Stinson and teachers presented everyone with Valentine's cookies, a treat, and a special invitation to invite the parents or anyone interested to the sweetheart's dinner on Feb. 14.

Rev. Donald Grover's message was "Obeying God's Word" Luke 6:20-49. Morning Hymn of Praise, "The Lily of the Valley" and special music by visitor, Polly Gamache, who played a selection on the flute. The choir sang "Cool Waters." Sliding, food and a good time for everyone followed in the afternoon. March 13, 5 p.m.: supper and skits.

March 18, 2-4 p.m.: sliding party. "Keep company with the more cheerful sort of the godly; there is no mirth like the mirth of believers." —Richard Baxter.

Judith Grover Tenet met at the Grange Hall on Monday, Feb. 3, for a regular meeting. Leatrice Chase filled in as chaplain and Verna Swan as senior vice president. March refreshment committee is Alice Hoyt and Verna Swan. Meri Howe was installed as color bearer #3; 53 calls were reported. Program by Elena Noyes, facts on George Washington and Abraham Lincoln and exchange of valentines. The next meeting will be March 14.

There will be a Republican caucus at the Fire Hall on Saturday, Feb. 20, at 7 p.m.

A meeting of Woodstock High School alumni association will be held at the home of Alice Hoyt on Tuesday, Feb. 23, to start plans for the alumni banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Jordan at Waterford on Sunday.

There will be a potluck supper Thursday, Feb. 18, at 6:30 at the Universalist Church, Bryant Pond. A program will follow.

Tribute to Elizabeth Russ

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russ moved to the village of Bryant Pond in 1947 from their farm to their new home which they purchased April 25, 1947. At the farm, Mrs. Russ was a good homemaker and mother to the boy (the late Nelson Whitman) who they brought up from childhood.

Her husband was a farmer and agent for the Grange and State Insurance, in which his wife assisted him in many ways. After moving to the village, they both became more involved in the Universalist Church, which they joined on September 20, 1953. Mrs. Russ was very active in the Ladies Circle and we all can well remember the summer sales held on their lawn when gallons of homemade ice cream she would serve for five and ten cents a dish or cone. If it was rainy, they would open up their garage and workshop for the sale.

"Lizzie" as we all knew her, worked very hard and faithfully on all supports and events for the church and the community. She served as the assistant treasurer of the building fund of the church in 1954 to 1960 when her husband was the treasurer. In later years, both of them had failing hearing problems (as many others did) so they gave the loudspeaker service to the church. The speaker is located on the right hand wall over pew #38 where they always sat every Sunday. After Albert's death in 1962 it was Chester's and my privilege to take her to church and always she would come out with a piece of hard candy or peppermint for us. The hymn board was made by them and the ceiling in the church was lowered. They both gave much in finances, labor and love to the church, in fact to many, many things for the town.

In Franklin Grange, Lizzie joined the order when only 14 years of age and was a loyal and faithful member till she entered the Lodgeview Home in 1972. She too was a charter member of the Woodstock Senior Citizens and we all remember the good foods she did bring to the dinners, especially with her kind meetings.

When one visits home she was always on hand reading until her could go on and her trusting devotion know them.

We know she was very intelligent in and possessed a very kind smile. Her kindly smile was always a reminder of a lady of spirit whom it was a privilege to know. Mrs. Russ was a true Christian, a memorial in her life to the Universalist Church, Bryant Pond, Maine 04212.

Woodstock School

By DIXIE INMAN

Mrs. Smith's Kindergarten students were busy celebrating Abe Lincoln's birthday by making pretzel log cabins.

Cultural events are coming to Woodstock School on Monday, Feb. 22 and Tuesday, Feb. 23. Students will be involved in hands-on activities and demonstrations in paper-making, basket weaving, spinning and weaving and throwing clay pots on a potter's wheel. The Cub Scouts held their Pinewood Derby and pack meeting Tuesday, Feb. 23. Mrs. Adam's Den #1 has changed meeting days to Thursdays, starting March 3, still to be held directly after school.

Over 70 students will be traveling to Oxford Hills Bowling Lanes starting Feb. 24. They will be leaving at 2 p.m. from school. Due to such a large turnout we may need to divide the group into two sections.

The Woodstock Warrior cheerleaders are planning a bake sale to help purchase uniforms. Letters for turtlenecks were ordered through Inman Printing on Old County Road.

to the dinners, especially her date cake, with her kindly presence at all the meetings.

When one visited her at the nursing home she was always cheerful, busy knitting on mittens, doing puzzles and reading until her eyesight grew dim. I could go on and relate many more kind and trusting deeds, but I'm sure you all know them.

We know she was a devoted wife and very intelligent in rural and village life and possessed a very fine personality. Her kindly smile and cheerful words will always be remembered in her life. She was a lady of sterling character; one whom it was a privilege to know; and I am sure we are all richer for having known Elizabeth S. Russ, as she was truly a reflection of all the fine principles of a true Christian life. Contributions to a memorial in her name may be made to the Universalist Church of Bryant Pond, c/o Annie T. Crockett, Bryant Pond, Maine 04219.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

The Ladies Circle met Feb. 1 at the home of Freda Robertson. The next meeting, which would normally be March 7, will be held Tuesday, March 8, because of Town Meeting, which is March 7.

Karlene Bachelder, Thelma Lowery, Betsy Clark, Beatrice Lowell, Gilberte Seelye, Bessie Etti, Kaye Buck, Eleanor Davis and Olive Anderson were at Oxford Lanes, Rumford, bowling Feb. 3. Karlene Bachelder was high on both single and triple, beating Thelma Lowery by one point on triple.

Registered Republicans of Newry are reminded that the Republican town caucus will be held at the municipal building Friday, Feb. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

The Mothers Club met Monday evening, with 16 members present. The meeting was opened by President Nancy Wight. Gilberte Seelye offered a prayer for Lee Swan's recovery. Peggy Wight read the minutes of the last meeting. Karlene Bachelder gave the financial report. Sunshine Lady, Olive Anderson, reported on cards she had mailed to shut-ins. Valentines were exchanged. It was voted to hold a white elephant sale at the next meeting, conducted by Thelma Lowery.

Refreshments were served by Sylvia Wight, Mary Tripp and Helen Morton. The next meeting will be March 14. Peggy Wight, Cindy Moxey and Olive Anderson will serve refreshments.

Historical Society

sponsors essay contest

Dr. Stanley R. Howe, director of the Bethel Historical Society, announced this week that the Society will again sponsor the Dr. Moses Mason Award essay contest.

Named for Dr. Moses Mason (1789-1866), whose notes on local history are preserved by the Bethel Historical Society, the award is made each year to the Gould Academy or Telstar Regional High School student who, in the opinion of the judges, writes the best essay on local history. The award, consisting of a $100 savings bond and a handsome certificate suitable for framing, is presented at the respective school's annual awards ceremony. It was established in 1978 by the Society's Board of Trustees.

In order to qualify, the student must be in grades 9-12 at either Gould or Telstar and submit an original essay of at least 500 but not more than 3,000 words based on primary sources (newspaper, diary, letter, oral, etc.) discussing a local history subject (confined to Oxford County).

Papers in the past have dealt with such subjects as floods, logging, Indians, coffin-making, John Alfred Poor, and the Don Disaster. Students interested in entering the contest should contact school authorities or call the Society office at 824-2908. The deadline for all submissions is May 1.

The contest is a part of the educational programs of the Bethel Historical Society founded in 1966 and dedicated to the preservation and interpretation of the local past. Others include local history school activities for elementary and secondary students, history and craft courses for adults, and workshops and conferences for specialists in local and regional history.

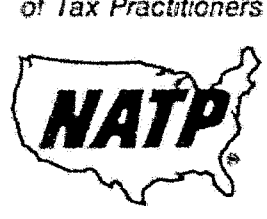

CARD OF THANKS

Many thanks for all the cards, messages and acts of kindness shown us during our recent loss. Special thanks to Nanna and Grandpa, Bob and Polly Davis, David and Lillian Lowell, Judy Webster, Clare Carver and all the staff at Bethel Savings Bank.

ON THEIR SNOWY THRONE, Gould's Carnival King and Queen—Amanda Jylka and John Chasse—were crowned Saturday night and surveyed a frozen expanse, enlivened by properly respectful classmates.

IS IT REALLY TRUE? Gould Academy's Carnival Queen, Amanda Jylka, of Rockport, Mass., can hardly believe she's just been crowned by Headmaster Bill Clough Saturday night. Carnival King John Chasse, of Damariscotta, takes the ceremonies more in stride.

Mrs. Dwight Grover attended a luncheon at the Congregational Church at South Paris Wednesday.

Mrs. Grace Nelson went to Norway on business Wednesday. She visited Mrs. Gertrude Yemma at the convalescent home while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barker Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Barker, Nancy Barker and friend left Friday with several others for Boston and will leave from there by plane for Mexico to be gone for a week of vacation.

Donald Plummer went to Lewiston on business Wednesday.

The church choir meets at the home of Mrs. Dwight Grover Monday evenings. Very cold here, 28 below most every morning. Several had trouble with water pipes.

Albert Nelson Sr. is quite busy delivering wood through this cold weather.

Mrs. Grace Nelson went to Bridgton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nelson Jr. went to Vermont Tuesday to visit their son who goes to school there.

Peter Lombard, who has been ill, has gone to Bethel to stay with his sister.

Five from here attended the turkey dinner given by the church parish diocese at the North Waterford vestry Wednesday. Mrs. Mary Grover and Mrs. Mertice Barker furnished transportation. The Rev. Carter West led all in old songs, accompanied by Mrs. Marjorie Kimball at the piano. Everyone had a nice time and it was a nice winter day.

State offers trout for sale to pond owners

The Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District will have trout available for sale through the Dead River Hatchery. They will supply trout for delivery May 11 at 11:30 a.m. in the parking lot behind the USDA building, 1 Main St., South Paris.

The Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife is requesting that the pond owner be responsible for filing a permit application. Those will be available at the District office, along with an order sheet.

If you wish to place an order for the rainbow or brook trout, please call the District office at 743-7019; apply in person at 1 Main St., South Paris; or write to Oxford County Soil & Water Conservation District, 1 Main St., South Paris, Maine 04281 and request an application and order sheet. The last date to place an order is April 8, to allow time for the permits to be processed.

Local historians helping on genealogical project

As part of a continuing effort to enlarge its genealogical holdings, the Bethel Historical Society has embarked on an ambitious vital records project.

As part of the Franklin County Historic Resource Survey, the Society has been loaned microfilm copies of early Franklin County newspapers. While Project Director and Society Curator of Collections Randall H. Bennett has been busy extracting information documenting the historic resources of that near-by county area, Society staff members, Green Thumb workers (a federally supported program for senior citizens), plus interested volunteers have been equally busy recording vital records of all western Maine localities. At this time, data from the years 1831 to 1873 has been assembled from careful readings of the Sandy River Yeoman, Franklin Register, Franklin Patriot, and Farmington Chronicle. In the future, more than a dozen additional papers will be read, including those currently appearing in Franklin County.

"This project will be a real boon to genealogists," observed Society Director Stanley R. Howe. "Increasingly the Society is seen as a valuable resource for genealogical research and we are doing everything possible to see that our reputation in this field grows," he added.

The Bethel Historical Society's genealogical holdings includes over 2,000 volumes of family and town history, in addition to a rich collection of pamphlets, diaries, journals, photographs, maps, atlases, scrapbooks, news clippings, newspapers and census records. While strongly oriented toward the Bethel area, western Maine, and the White Mountain region, the resources also include material on other New England states and eastern Canada.

Founded in 1966, the Society maintains its headquarters in the 1813 Dr. Moses Mason House and supports a full schedule of programs, publications, exhibits and special events. Anyone wishing further information, should direct inquiries to the Society, P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217 or (207) 824-2906.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a good quote:
"Antiques should be loved, admired, and used. They must be understood and studied until you can determine which pieces in the world of antiques can best express your thoughts and appeal to your aesthetic sense." —Ralph and Terry Koval
Curator Larry Billings has given the Society a booklet on doing genealogy.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

The news is scarce this week, friends. I have had no calls on any subject. Esther and I were in Bethel to see the house that burned out.

Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews and Mark, with his friend, were over for the afternoon. Arthur piled over the wood so I could get it. He helps me a lot.

Ruth Barnette and Zella Morse called on me Wednesday afternoon. Zella called on Marguerite Verrill, also.

Beyond the cold weather I guess that is about it. We have January out of our hair; maybe we will have more news.

Grange meeting was scheduled for Feb. 15. A Valentine exchange was planned.

Esther Davis brought me a beautiful bouquet of flowers. They are lovely.

Got cleaned out after the storm last week and got to town on Friday to get my back tinkered and get groceries as well as a few other errands. From what I have heard on the news for weather forecast, we are in for another storm starting after midnight tonight and tomorrow. Haven't heard how much they think we may get but I'm sure it will be enough. Maybe not for the ski areas, but for the rest of us it will be sufficient.

Have had some kind of a bug this week and haven't felt too good so haven't done as much as I would have liked to but still kept busy. Can't sit and twiddle my thumbs unless I want to go nuts so keep knitting or crocheting to pass the time away. Made a real pretty pair of mittens this week to while away the time and it used up some of my excess yarn. I plan to make more toward next Christmas. That way I don't have to hurry so much to get gifts done next fall. Might even have more than I need and take them to a craft sale, who knows?

My daughter had asked Russell, Peggy and I to dinner on Sunday so we accepted and went down. Her back is much better and she got a nice dinner in honor of Russell's birthday even if it was late. They had been exposed to scarlet fever so couldn't come on his birthday. Better late than never.

Saturday night, Russell and Peggy went to West Paris dancing. I didn't go as I have been having more trouble with my legs and knew I couldn't dance so stayed home and watched television.

Kariann had come home with me on Sunday and stayed overnight. Her mother had a doctor's appointment early on Monday and she picked her up then. She had been wanting to come up badly. Courtney would like to but as she goes to nursery school three mornings a week, it doesn't give her much chance. She also has dance lessons on Saturday so not much time to go to Grandma's house. We had a nice visit with the girls on Sunday while there and Courtney showed us what her dance will be like at the recital later in the spring. I'm sure it will be as cute as last year. It is so much fun to watch the young folk dance and show what they have learned throughout the year. Courtney really loves the dancing and is very outgoing so gets along well. Kariann loves to dance at home but isn't as outgoing as Courtney so don't know whether she will join dancing another year or not. Time will tell.

Monday was a busy day for Peggy. She got an appointment with the chiropractor and then Laura called that she was having eye trouble and wanted to go to see the same eye doctor we go to. We gave her the number and she called and as he could see her that day, she needed a way to get there. Her car had broken down on Sunday and was in the garage. Peggy went to the doctor and then headed up to meet Laura at her daughter's home in Locke Mills. From there, she took her to Lewiston for the appointment and then back to Bethel after her appointment was over, so Peggy didn't get home till a little after 6:30. She said she didn't feel like sitting any more for awhile. She had her fill of it during the day. We were glad to hear that Laura didn't have trouble with her eyes and that the problem she was having was something else. Eyes are so important that it was a blessing to know she doesn't have glaucoma like our brother in Colorado or some other eye disease as Russell has. Cataracts are bad enough even when they don't grow. That is what I have and it has made my sight worse, but they are not ready to operate on so take one day at a time.

Tuesday was my day for going to North Bridgton and was glad to go. I needed some help in many ways. My back won't stay in place no matter who puts it back so had to have that tinkered. Wasn't feeling too good and got something to help nausea and the pain from fibrositis. That has come back to let me know I'm not rid of it by any means.

In the afternoon, Russell and Peggy had gone for a walk when a car drove into the yard. I didn't recognize the gentleman who came down the path to the door, but went to see who it was and it was John Palmer, of Lovell. He and his wife, Caroline, visited us for awhile. Russell wasn't gone too long and got to have a nice visit. Hope they drop in again sometime. It is always so good to have someone drop in like that and help make a day nicer for you. We were very glad to see them.

Didn't go anywhere on Wednesday except for a short walk to see if it would help my legs feel any better. I think it did them good. It wasn't too cold so got along fine. Couldn't seem to walk as far as usual but even a short walk is better than none at all.

Peggy was gone most of the day on Wednesday. Her friend Charlotte Cole came down and they went to Lewiston together. They were going to visit a friend who had an operation a short while ago. They had met her at the dance in Greece where she sold tickets for the dance. Everyone there is so friendly that it doesn't seem to take very long to have new friends. Guess by what Peggy said, she was glad to see them.

West Paris Grange had to cancel their meeting on Feb. 4, but will be having the legislative program at the next meeting on Feb. 18. We will hope a storm won't cancel this meeting. It will also be their Valentine meeting.

The 4-H Club will be having a bowl-athon to raise money for the club. It will take place next Tuesday, weather

'Celebration of Reading' underway at libraries

The "Celebration of Reading," a joint project of area libraries and SAD #4 Adult and Community Education's Literacy Task Force, will be held during the school vacation week. Shirley Hodson, chairman of the Task Force, has announced final plans for the Celebrations, which will be held in Bethel on Tuesday, Feb. 16, Andover, on Thursday, Feb. 18, and Bryant Pond on Friday, Feb. 19.

Reading marathons will be held in all three libraries, featuring 10-minute readings by many library patrons. Larinda Mead, state coordinator of Project Literacy US and consultant for literacy for the Department of Educational and Cultural Services, will be a guest reader at the Whitman Library, in Bryant Pond. Some features of the Celebration will be reading marathons for children, films, refreshments, face-painting, and puppets. Plans will vary at each location, and those interested in participating should contact their local library for details.

Orientation at OHHS for 8th Grade parents

On Wednesday, Feb. 24, the Oxford Hills guidance department will sponsor an 8th Grade Parents Orientation to High School beginning at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

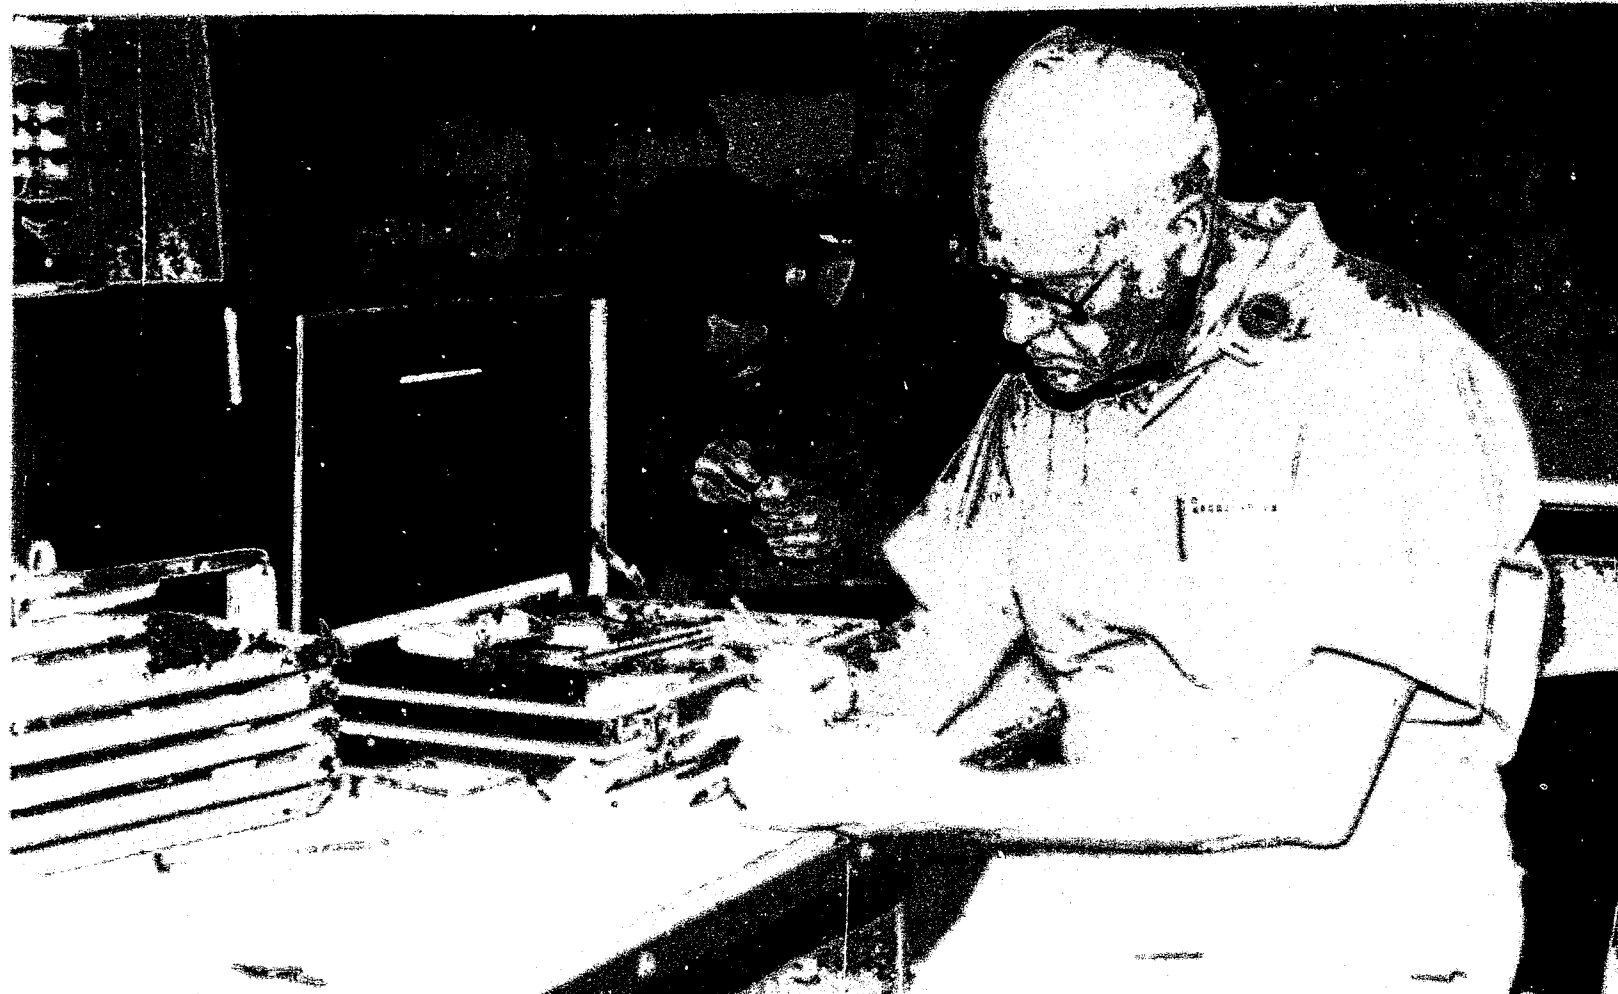

Parents are encouraged to bring their 8th Grade children with them to the meeting. The purpose of this orientation program is to help parents and students gain a better understanding of the various high school programs through classroom contacts with teachers from each department. Presentations will be directed at specific levels, and those attending will have the opportunity to select which presentations to attend. Eighth-graders and their parents are encouraged to attend this program.

permitting. One of the Sunday schools is planning a roller skating party for all involved in the near future. Sounds like fun for the children who are involved. Having it during school vacation is a great idea and gives them something to look forward to.

If we get the snow they are telling us we will have, we may all be shoveling tomorrow or Saturday. But if you do shovel, take it easy.

Rotary Club notes

Dick Taylor, of Gould Academy's cross-country ski program, was the guest speaker at the weekly club breakfast yesterday (Tuesday) at Martha's Restaurant.

Mr. Taylor, a member of the 1964 U.S. Olympic team and a cross-country ski coach for the team until last year, spoke about misconceptions concerning Olympic competition.

He said it is commonly believed in this country that Olympic competition is, and should be, the province of amateur athletes. But, he said, this was not the case when the games were originally held in Greece and it is certainly not the case today.

In Greece, before the games were outlawed, all athletes were allowed to compete—there was no distinction between amateur or professional. And athletes were supported by the towns they represented with gifts and other benefits.

In the modern era, with the resumption of the Olympics, the games have always been used by politicians for national interest and by businessmen for commercial interest, Mr. Taylor said. He added that the best proof of this generality was when the U.S. pulled out of competition in Moscow in 1980 for political reasons that had nothing to do with sport.

In addition, Mr. Taylor said, U.S. athletes of world class calibre are regularly funded by business interests, even though they are forbidden to accept money directly. The way the system works, he said, is for a manufacturer (say, of skis) to donate money to the U.S. Ski Education Association, earmarking it for the expenses of the athlete they wish to sponsor. The athlete can then withdraw the money as needed for "educational" expenses.

Prior to hosting the guest speaker, the club held its weekly 60/50 raffle, with Bill Conary having the winning ticket. He donated his winnings to the Polio Plus campaign of Rotary International.

Steve Wight, who is one of the organizers of the club's Disney World raffle to benefit the Spanish Youth Exchange, said the drawing for the winning tickets will be this Saturday at the Sunday River Inn, at 3:30. The grand prize is an all-expense paid trip to Disney World for two. Raffle tickets are still

Stress management course offered at SMH

The Health Education Department at Stephens Memorial Hospital will be sponsoring a Stress Management Course on two consecutive Saturdays, Feb. 27 and March 5, from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., in the SMH board room.

This two-session program explores various relaxation techniques, methods of behavior modification, normal vs. abnormal ranges of feelings, techniques for dealing with job stress and more. It will be conducted by Kenneth G. Hamilton, M.D.

The fee for this course is $60, which includes late morning coffee and muffins and a noon lunch. For registration, call the Health Education office at 743-5933, Ext. 4471.

Bethel Senior Citizens

Bethel Senior Citizens met Feb. 10 at the Backstage Restaurant, with 79 in attendance.

President Virginia Walker conducted the meeting and reports were read and accepted. Annual membership dues should be paid now. There are 46 members under 80, and six over 80.

Tom Barton, of the Forestry Department, spoke about the senior citizen work program and encouraged both men and women to investigate the program further.

Lindley Weiden spoke about upcoming meetings this week and read anecdotes, followed by group singing led by Mr. O'Connell.

The speaker of the afternoon, Louise Lincoln, shared interesting and entertaining experiences of her trip to Hongkong, Thailand and China.

Leona Flint made a beautiful valentine cake and valentines were shared. A most enjoyable afternoon.

Watch The Citizen for details of the next meeting, probably at the Congregational Church.

Heritage Day Monday

A wide variety of activities are again planned for the Bethel Historical Society's 14th Annual Heritage Day to be held Feb. 22 at the organization's Broad Street headquarters. The Dr. Moses Mason House. The event will begin at 1 p.m. and continue until 4 p.m.

Featured during the afternoon will be several old-time craft demonstrations and exhibits featuring everything from basketmaking to wood carving. Several Oxford County historical organizations will be displaying their publications in local history and Helen Morton has organized a local art show for the day. Special tours of the Dr. Moses Mason Museum will be available, with Indian pudding served from the hearth of the winter kitchen. Historical films will also be shown.

Heritage Day is the annual winter festival of the Bethel Historical Society. It is designed to cause museum visitors to reflect on the past and encourage interest in our American heritage. Begun in 1975, the event honors the 256th birthday of George Washington.

Those wishing further information should call the Society office at 824-2908.

Bethel Senior Citizens

Bethel Senior Citizens met Feb. 10 at the Backstage Restaurant, with 79 in attendance.

President Virginia Walker conducted the meeting and reports were read and accepted. Annual membership dues should be paid now. There are 46 members under 60, and six over 60.

Tom Barton, of the Forestry Department, spoke about the senior citizen work program and encouraged both men and women to investigate the program further.

Lindley Weiden spoke about upcoming meetings this week and read anecdotes, followed by group singing led by Mr. O'Connell.

The speaker of the afternoon, Louise Lincoln, shared interesting and entertaining experiences of her trip to Hongkong, Thailand and China.

Leona Flint made a beautiful valentine cake and valentines were shared. A most enjoyable afternoon.

Watch The Citizen for details of the next meeting, probably at the Congregational Church.

School officials attend seminar at Deering H.S.

Ted Davis, principal of Telstar Middle/High School; Karen Bean, teacher of English; and Sally Hannon, guidance, attended an evaluation seminar on Feb. 1 at Deering High School.

Sponsored by the Commission on Public Secondary Schools of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, the evaluation seminar provided an opportunity for principals and steering committee members of schools scheduled for evaluation next spring to share their reactions to the self-study process with members of the Commission staff. Participants also discussed the role of the visiting committee and learned how other schools have established follow-up programs to implement the recommendations of the self-study and visiting committee.

The New England Association of Schools and Colleges, founded in 1885, is the oldest accrediting agency in the country and is recognized by the U.S. Department of Education as a reliable agency to award accreditation to New England schools. The Association is a voluntary accrediting agency of over 1160 public and independent schools, colleges and universities, and vocational, technical and career institutions. Of these, approximately 600 public middle level and high schools have been accredited through the Association's Commission on Public Schools.

Heritage Day Monday

A wide variety of activities are again planned for the Bethel Historical Society's 14th annual Heritage Day to be held Feb. 22 at the organization's Broad Street headquarters, the Dr. Moses Mason House. The event will begin at 1 p.m. and continue until 4 p.m.

Featured during the afternoon will be several old-time craft demonstrations and exhibits featuring everything from basketmaking to wood carving. Several Oxford County historical organizations will be displaying their publications in local history and Helen Morton has organized a local art show for the day. Special tours of the Dr. Moses Mason Museum will be available, with Indian pudding served from the hearth of the winter kitchen. Historical films will also be shown.

Heritage Day is the annual winter festival of the Bethel Historical Society. It is designed to cause museum visitors to reflect on the past and encourage interest in our American heritage. Begun in 1975, the event honors the 256th birthday of George Washington.

Those wishing further information should call the Society office at 824-2968.

Vote still out on how state deer herd is doing

Maine's wintering deer population has benefited from a relatively mild and snow-free winter until late January. But weather conditions during the remainder of the winter will have a significant impact on next year's deer population level.

The crucial period for deer in Maine occurs during February and March, especially if deep snow and cold weather persist. A crusty surface forming over deep snow, when warm or rainy weather is followed by a cold snap, can also leave deer vulnerable to severe losses from free-roaming dogs and coyotes.

The Maine Warden Service last week issued a reminder to dog owners that they must not allow their dogs to roam, else they face severe penalties, including mandatory fines from $500 to $1,000, and up to six months in jail.

Dogs, being lighter than deer, have a tremendous advantage since they can run on top of a supportive crust, while the heavier sharp-hooved deer break through and flounder helplessly.

Wildlife biologist Gerald Lavigne, deer study leader for the department, reports that biologists, wardens and volunteer cooperators are closely monitoring wintering conditions by gathering weekly data from 28 wintering areas statewide. Measurements of snow depth and snow profile characteristics are taken in open and softwood cover types. At 18 of the 28 stations, air temperature is continuously recorded in the open, using thermographs. The information is used to compile a winter severity index.

Lavigne notes that since Maine is near the northernmost limit of the white-tailed deer's range, "the severity and duration of winter weather exerts considerable influence on deer survival and abundance."

Periodically, a severe winter (or a series of them) causes high winter mortality and a population decline. Conversely, mild winters enhance deer survival and facilitate population increases.

"Deer survival in winter is dependent on their mobility. Deep, unsupportive snow inhibits deer mobility and may prevent the animal from taking in enough browse to sustain itself. Low air temperatures and wind create a further demand on the deer, since it must generate more heat to maintain normal body temperature. Under these conditions deer must absorb body fat to stay alive. When severe winter conditions persist, a deer becomes progressively weaker and malnourished until it finally exhausts its reserves of body fat. At this point, winter losses begin to occur. Fawns of the previous summer are generally the first to go, although considerable mortality among adults occurs during very severe winters."

Lavigne adds that "losses of the following fawn crop may also occur after a severe winter. Malnourished pregnant does tend to produce weak or stillborn fawns, further adding to deer population declines."

He concludes that "effective management of Maine's deer resource requires a reliable estimate of winter severity so that prediction of winter deer losses, fawn recruitment, and possible changes in the size of the deer herd may be made, and the following fall's deer harvest can be properly adjusted."

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

The next important date to remember is Wednesday, Feb. 24. Ms. Heidi McGinley, from the State Department of Education, will present a workshop for all who are interested in Volunteers in the Schools program. This meeting will be at the Agnes Gray School at 7 p.m. Everyone is welcome, so do plan to come, and bring a friend.

The winning teams in this year's Klondike Derby were: Grade 6, Pratt's Bratts; Andre Pratt, Rusty Doleman, Josh Walton and Josh Adams. Grade 5, Andy's No Names: Andy Leach, Christopher Tripp, Jay Henderson, and Heather Brown. Grade 4, Agnes Gray Bombers: Katie Walton, Angie Farnum, Willo Andrews, and Kevin Hutchinson. Grade 3, Tim's Huskies: Tim Farrar, Jonathan Morgan, Laura Strout, MaryAnne Cox, and Emily Cole. Grade 2, Audrey's Huskies: Audrey Tikander, Chip Wyman, Erin Doughty, Jason Beaulieu and Marc Cole.

Thursday, Feb. 11, was the 100th day of the current school year. Kindergarten and 1st Grade children have been preparing all year for this special day. On this day, the kindergartners put together their 100-day creature. It is made up of 100 paper plates, had 100 different shaped feet and a beard consisting of 100 strands of yarn. Each student brought in a special collection of 100 of something, from 100 marshmallows to 100 little snowmen made from Ivory Flakes.

The 1st-graders brought in their collections of 100 also. And in addition, they had 100 pretzels to count out, divide among the class and eat.

I am writing this on Thursday evening. If the predicted snowstorm doesn't cancel school, all classes will be celebrating a Valentine's party before the vacation break. The 3rd Grade is planning an ice cream sundae party. All classes will enjoy treats and valentines of friendship.

Some children have been out with a bug of some kind. Three that I know of that we hope will be feeling better by the time this is out are: Laura Strout, Bethany Hutchinson and Jesse Eastman. Grade 3 has lots of news this week. The class gives a big thank-you to Shannon Farris for supplying their reward movie, "Jungle Book." Mr. Tame, the district math coordinator, is helping the class with multiplication. On his last visit, MaryAnne Cox and Katie Buehl did an especially good job working with Unifix cubes to show grouping for multiplication. Their creative writing stories are coming along very well. The "writers of the week" are: Naomi Bean, working on her story "Snowmen," and Amey Coffin. Amey's story is entitled "Me and Casey's Show." Dinomania continues in Mrs. Loper's Grade 3 classroom. The students will be learning about the meat-eating dinosaurs after vacation. Allosaurus, Tyrannosaurus Rex, as well as the flying and swimming dinosaurs will be decorating their murals.

Today Mrs. Barbara Olson, an elementary physical education teacher, introduced Grades 2-6 to Mr. Wayne Barclay of the American Heart Association. Mr. Barclay talked briefly about heart disease and then gave a really neat demonstration on jumping rope to stay healthy. There are at least 100 ways to jump rope and there's no saying "I can't." Several students volunteered to help him demonstrate and did an excellent job. They each received a special hat for helping out. Later on in the spring, area children will have the opportunity to participate in a Jump Rope-a-thon to benefit the American Heart Association and its research. Mr. Barclay certainly made jumping rope look easy and full of fun, while stressing the importance of maintaining a healthy heart.

MARGUREITTEA SPINNEY

Margureittea Young Spinney, 92, died Monday, Feb. 15, 1988, at Ledgeview Memorial Home, West Paris, where she had been a resident since June 1978.

She was born in Kalispell, Mont., March 9, 1895, the daughter of Lewis E. and Mary Jane Poole Young. She attended school in Sherbrooke, Quebec, and Bethel. She was married to James A. Spinney, Dec. 31, 1921. He died Jan. 7, 1967. She was a resident of Bethel since an early age. She had worked at the New Yorker, in Bethel, for 17 years and was a homemaker. Mrs. Spinney was a member of the Mundt/Allen American Legion Auxiliary #31, World War I Baracks Auxiliary, the Round Mountain and Franklin Granges and the Oxford Pomona and Maine State Granges.

She is survived by two daughters, Leah A. Deegan, of West Greenwood, and Mary Jane Gaudreau, of Bethel; a stepdaughter, Marion Soule, of Palermo; a sister, Maude Danforth, of West Paris; a brother, William Young, of Bethel; nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held today (Wednesday), at 1 p.m., from the Greenleaf Funeral Home, in Bethel, with spring interment in the Riverside Cemetery, Bethel. Donations may be made in her memory to the Ledgeview Memorial Home, c/o Evis Harlow, RFD #1, Box 3410, West Paris, Me. 04289.

From the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The Chamber board of directors met the morning of Feb. 11 at the Casco Bank and the following issues were discussed:

The reservation service continues to book reservations for area innkeepers, thanks to Cathy being kind enough to operate out of her home. A meeting is scheduled for next Thursday, Feb. 18, 11 a.m. at The Four Seasons Inn. This meeting is being called together of all present and potential members to see where we should go from here. If there are any lodging businesses interested in what has been going on, you are more than welcome to join the meeting.

Fundraising committee possibilities for 1988 are a chance in the spring and a dinner including a style show.

The membership committee now has a brochure that has been printed to present to potential new members, explaining the benefits of being a member of the Chamber. Welcome to the newest members, Lloyd Farren, barber, operating from the back of the former RFD #1 Restaurant, and Scott Management, operating out of Gilles Realty.

The Chamber's new location is at the RFD #2 location in the local office. The space is appreciated and thanks to everyone at Joly for having the Chamber as part of their family.

Dan Rather beat the bush and came out darn (w)orthy.

I sent for a "free" jewelry from Paul, Marbin and Co. as I was declared a winner for same. I could have paid for extra rush service and when the prize arrived, it proved to be one I could have waited for any length of time. If this valuable jewelry had been on sale at one cent each, buyers would be few.

Gould girls win ski meet

Gould Academy's girls' varsity ski team placed first at last week's meet at Cannon Mountain.

The local girls won with nine points. Runner-up Holderness had 17 points while White Mountain School had 34 and Brewster had 35.

Gould's Christine McCarthy took a first, while teammates Heidi Van Winkle took third, Brett White took fifth, and Laura Ordway came in ninth.

The Gould boys' team finished tied for second with Holderness—both teams having 38 points. White Mountain School's boys' team won the meet, with 11 points; Brewster came in fourth, with 56 points.

Individual scorers for the Gould boys were: Adam Wales, 6th; Tao Smith, 8th; Mike Wilson, 11th; David Hawkes, 13th; George Miller, 17th.

In the giant slalom at Sugarloaf, Gould's girls finished as follows: Heidi Van Winkle, 2nd; Monica Burk, 4th; Brett White, 5th; and Sarah Kailey 7th.

In JV skiing at Pleasant Mountain last week, Gould took first place competing against Kents Hill, Hebron, Bridgton and Fryeburg.

Individual scorers for Gould were: Garrett Gerard, 1st; Dave Bolter, 2nd; Chris Dickenson, 13th; John Stevens, 18th; Sam McGee 35th and Chester Schaaf 36th.

Upcoming this Friday is the Maine Prep School Championships, at Kents Hill. The varsity will see action beginning 8:30 a.m. On Saturday, the JV teams will compete.

On Saturday the varsity will journey to Dartmouth College for the New England Prep School Championships.
